

Calling all Birders and anyone else interested

On behalf of Dick and in his absence (he is away overseas with Catherine driving his vehicle from Brighton to London), I am organising the next Bird Walk at Random Harvest, taking place on 18th November 2017. I have made a provisional booking of 10 people as these walks fill up quickly. At a cost of R145 these walks are most splendid and informative, followed by a sumptuous breakfast. See details below.

Please let me know soonest if you would like to join us.

Bird Walk - Random Harvest Nursery

We are excited that Andre Marx will be taking another bird walk in November. I photographed this African Pipit in the grassland. Luckily I could send the picture to Andre for identification.

Going on a walk with Andre you will definitely not be bamboozled with identifying those pesky LBJ's that all look almost the same.

Date: 18th November, 2017,
Time: 7h00

Cost: including Buffet breakfast and welcome tea and biscuits. R145.00
