From the early of days of Evergreen's existence residents and their visitors have marvelled at the birdlife that our wetland supports.

Quite a number of residents have been actively involved in educating, the rest of us, in identifying the numerous birds, goggas and other fauna.

This slide show will illustrate quite a number of species that have been photographed in situ by various residents, and hopefully inspire others to get involved in being observant and seeing what our lovely environment has to offer.

Please inform Dick Sheppard (Ext. 101) if you are going to attend.
