NATIONAL GOLF LOVER'S DAY

4 October 2021

NATIONAL GOLF LOVER'S DAY

National Golf Lover's Day on October 4th provides an opportunity for golf enthusiasts to swing down the fairway at least one more time during the season.

While celebrating the day, you might notice it is sometimes also referred to as National Golf Day. Since 1952, the PGA has held a charity event each year for National Golf Day, which is held on different days each year.

The modern game of golf may have originated in 15th century Scotland. However, it is unclear and very much debated as to its ancient origins.

HOW TO OBSERVE – Golf Lovers Day

In many parts of the country, golfers hit the links all year long. However, in the more northern regions, courses will close due to cooler temperatures preventing golfers from chasing the elusive hole-in-one.

While you can, get out and golf a round or two. Invite friends to join you. Visit a course you've never been to before. Challenge yourself to a more difficult course. Improve your handicap or offer to teach someone the game.

NATIONAL MAD HATTER DAY

6 October 2021

NATIONAL MAD HATTER DAY

Get ditzy and wear a funny hat. It can be a Cat in the Hat type hat, an over-sized wood cap like Rerun's, or fall back to the classic top hat.

When people raise eyebrows wondering what you're doing, invite them to your tea party and share the story of the Mad Hatter.

We all need some silly right now...

Don't Be late, Don't be late
For a very important date...

NATIONAL CHESS DAY

9 October 2021

NATIONAL CHESS DAY

The second Saturday in October recognizes National Chess Day. The game challenges players mentally while also breaking down barriers through the centuries.

Chess developed in India during the fifth century. As the strategic game spread across continents, the pieces and rules evolved. It also shifted between classes. Once, only the upper class could afford to linger over a long, challenging game. However, the merchant class would later introduce the game to the rest of the population as they travelled around the world trading their wares.

In the game of chess, two opponents go head-to-head with 16 playing pieces each. These pieces include eight pawns, two rooks, two knights, two bishops, one queen and one king in each colour. Their objective is to capture the opponent's king through a series of strategic moves.

The day celebrates the long history of chess and recognizes the role chess plays in connecting people across societies. The game has broken many barriers – class, language, and cultural – simply by two people sitting down to play one of the most mentally challenging games in the world.

Chess Facts

- It's a mental game. However, the game can end as quickly as two moves.
- The longest possible chess game in terms of the number of moves is 5,949.
- Checkmate derives from the Persian phrase Shah Mat. The phrase means "the King is dead."
- In 1989, a chess match between Ivan Nikolic and Goran Arsovic in Belgrade ended in a draw. It was recorded as the longest official check game and lasted 269 moves.
- The playing board used today with the alternating light and dark squares first appeared in Europe in 1090.

HOW TO OBSERVE – National Chess Day

Play a game of chess. Find a tournament near you and join it. Create an event to teach others to play chess.
