BOKTOWN - COMMUNIQUE 34

This was conceived as an idea and then a project by the Evergreen Marketing Department about two weeks before the start of the Rugby World Cup. It was a marketing initiative, the result of which we cannot measure. However, the Broadacres residents have benefited in a truly excellent way. At short notice, Wilma put it all together. There is a whole team of people to thank. The matches were mostly at difficult times and over weekends, meaning that Wilma, her team, Andrew, and the catering staff had to give up weekend and family time to make it all happen. In addition, the Waterhole team volunteered to look after the drinks before they were asked. Brenda also played a major part in representing ResCom. The EPI marketing department provided the budget, and we are the permanent recipients of the big screen projector. We have much to be grateful for and, of course, a very satisfactory outcome.
